The passage occupies about 5 to 5 days, and the Company's best Steamers are employed on the Line, which are built expressly for this service, with specially arranged accommodation and comfort of Passengers, and have each an experienced Surgeon on board. At Trieste the traveller to England has an extensive choice of picturesque and interesting routes, occupying from three days six hours to five days to London, at an expense varying from £7 to £13.

Passengers by the P. & O. Co.'s steamers to Suez can have their baggage forwarded by that Company's steamers from Alexandria to Southampton, at a charge of 10s. per bag, for the regulated allowance of 3 cwt., and of 20s. per cwt. for excess weight (both exclusive of transit through Egypt), to which the Austrian Lloyd's Agent adds 8 Sous will attend.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1871.

THE nearly fatal illness of the Prince of Wales has led to a revelation which must have surprised, if not disconcerted, a good many even of those people who love to class themselves as "thoughtful politicians." It has been discovered that, after all, the sentiment of loyalty is not extinct in England. With the exception of an inconsiderable fraction of the nation, the English people have, we believe, felt no desire of late to try those Republican institutions, which, while they are unattainable, seem to foreign nations the perfect embodiment of political wisdom; and anyone who reflects on the state of excitement into which the lower classes were thrown in England after the French Revolutions of 1789 and 1848 must wonder that so much fuss should lately have been made about the Republicanism which confines itself to making speeches which are not even seditious at the Hole-in-the-Wall. Sir Charles Dilke's is, of course, an exceptional case. It is said that the citizens of Brighton avenge themselves for their enforced servility to the "Upper Ten" all the year round by electing the most violent Radicals in England as their representatives in Parliament; and Sir Charles Dilke the Second's Republicanism is in like manner, no doubt, only an energetic protest against the life-long adulation of Royalty which procured a baronetcy for Sir Charles Dilke the First. The speeches of the member for Chelsea, if he had been allowed to carry out his intention of lecturing on the cost of the Monarchy in all the great towns of England, would have been valuable in eliciting the real feelings of the people. The educational course seems, however, to have been left incomplete on account of the Prince's illness; and we have only the reports of the Newcastle and Leeds speeches to enable us to judge how far the opinions of Sir Charles are in accord with those of his countrymen. The audiences apparently were far from enthusiastic for Republican principles. They laughed a good deal at the baronet's enumeration of some of the quaint titles held by officers of the Royal household, and they showed annoyance at the Queen's conduct in saving her money instead of spending it freely for the benefit of society. But there was hardly any display of that savage bitterness of hatred against an adversary which sets its mark on the language of political parties when they are really in earnest. It is true that one man in the crowd at Leeds, when Sir Charles Dilke was replying to a letter from a gentleman styling himself "Coroner of Her Majesty's Household," cried out, "I wish he had more to do," in the belief, it would seem, that this officer, whose business is to look after the accounts, has similar duties to perform to those of ordinary Coroners. But this brutal remark was quite exceptional; and in a country where the utmost license of speech is allowed at public meetings it strikes us as worthy of note that so little expression was given by Sir Charles Dilke's hearers to that ferocious spirit of discontent with the existing order of things which everywhere and at all times must dwell in the hearts of men who, for one reason or another, are at the bottom of the social scale. Those who are alarmed for the fate of the Monarchy because obscure men say coarse things about the Royal Family might take comfort in remembering how the House of Brunswick was spoken of a century ago by both men of genius and men of fashion. All Scotchmen are familiar with Burns's disloyal lines, ending with a couplet which would be thought tolerably strong in our day, if used to describe the Royal Family by a frequenter of the Hole-in-the-Wall:—

An idiot race, to honour lost;
Who know them best, despise them most.

But even Burns's lines are outdone in plain speaking by the epitaph on Frederick, Prince of Wales, composed by a famous writer of vers de société in the Court of George II. The epitaph, of which one pardons the brutality for the sake of the wit, runs as follows:—

Here lies Fred,
Who was alive, and is dead.
Had it been his father,
I had much rather;
Had it been his sister,
No one would have missed her;
Had it been his brother,
Still better than another;
Had it been the whole lot o' them,
We should have been well shot o' them;
But, as it's only Fred,
Who was alive and is dead,
There's no more to be said.

Monarchy is, we venture to maintain, not more unpopular now in England than it was through the greater part of the eighteenth century; but till within the last three weeks we had supposed that it was accepted in these days on grounds of expediency alone, and because the majority of Englishmen had convinced themselves, by careful calculation, that on the whole they are as well off under the rule of a Constitutional Sovereign as they would be if they were citizens of a Republic. But the Prince's illness has called forth an outburst of personal sympathy with and devotion to the Royal Family which must have simply amazed those sagacious Continental politicians who believed that the English nation was Republican at heart and ripe for a revolution. There has been nothing like this spontaneous manifestation of the profound affection and reverence which Her Majesty's subjects in all parts of the world feel towards their Sovereign, since the early years of the present reign, when the youthful Queen Victoria made a progress through Great Britain and was welcomed with an enthusiasm that showed the age of chivalry was not past.

The Prince of Wales himself cannot but be deeply touched by the interest so many millions of loyal subjects have taken in him. It cannot be said that the Prince personally, before his illness, was popular in England; but the prejudice against him is, as happens in most such cases, based on stories many of which are quite unfounded. His Royal Highness is a good-natured, jovial, careless Prince, not very particular in the choice of his companions, and yielding too easily to the temptations to lead a life of pleasure to which his rank and age naturally expose him. No doubt, the English press will now lecture him very freely on the sins of his youth, and will exhort him to rise from his bed of sickness a changed man, and to devote the rest of his life to following the admirable example set him by that blameless Prince, his father. We do not say that such lectures will be unheeded; but it is certain that the best way to keep the Prince out of mischief hereafter will be to give him some work to do worthy of his high station. It is the compulsory idleness of his position as Heir to the Crown that has made him think only of amusing himself; and, now that he has reached an age at which ambition begins to have some attractions even for men of pleasure, we should fancy that he himself would be glad to have the opportunity of showing that he is fit for something better than the follies with which he has been wont to beguile the time. Mr. Disraeli stated very correctly, only the other day, that it is a popular mistake to suppose the Sovereign in England does not still, although the country is ruled by the Ministers, take a deep interest in political affairs and have frequent occasion to use the experience gathered during a long reign in helping to shape the course of her advisers. It seems, therefore, a strange anomaly that, since the Queen still holds so much actual power in her hands, the Prince of Wales should be subjected to a political ostracism, and condemned to be the only man in the country who has not the liberty to complete his political education by taking an active part in public life. The Prince will, some day or other, be King of the most extensive and powerful Empire in the world, and it cannot be desirable that he should be kept entirely without political influence, and not even admitted to a knowledge of the way in which the government of the country is carried on, till he comes to the Throne. He cannot take office as a Minister; but the Queen might ask that he should be associated with her, now that her own health is failing, in the performance of the more serious and important duties of Royalty. The country resented the act of grace by which Her Majesty made the Prince Consort her associate in administering affairs of State, but it would not distrust the Prince of Wales; and both the Queen and the Prince would win popularity by a change which would prove the Monarchy to be a living thing and not a mere relic of the past. Those who are curious in coincidences have remarked that the favourable turn in the Prince's illness began on the very day of the year, the 14th December, on which his father died. May we be permitted to express the hope that Her Majesty will accept and act upon this perhaps providential hint that the son has been spared to supply the place of the father?

IT is believed that Mr. John Cowie will be Sheriff of Calcutta in the ensuing year.

DURING the week ending Tuesday, the number of deaths registered in Bombay was 325, and the number of births 8.

MR. OVANS, Acting Collector of Colaba, has been allowed furlough to Europe for twelve months from the 30th inst.

THE POOR BOX.

THE Senior Magistrate acknowledges, with thanks, the receipt of the following contributions for the Fort [illegible]

THE COMMERCIAL BANK OF INDIA vs. BHANJEE NUNDOO.

THIS adjourned motion was heard before Justice Bayley yesterday in the High Court.

Mr. Ferguson repeated his former argument that the defendant admitted in his insolvent list the sum for which decree was sought, and stated reasons against the last affidavit filed by the defendant.

Mr. Marriott, in reply, submitted that his client had been most inequitably and unjustly treated by the representatives of the Bank in Bombay. First of all Rs. 3,000 were paid to Mr. Rimington for a compromise, and after the defendant had filed his schedule he went to Mr. Punnett, who was then liquidator. Mr. Punnett told him he would recommend a compromise upon a payment of Rs. 500—Rs. 200 to be paid down. Yet for all this, nothing was done for his client either by Mr. Rimington or Mr. Punnett. Mr. Marriott contended that his client had been induced to pay Rs. 3,000, under the belief that a compromise would be effected for him, and it seemed to him that as a matter of equity the Bank must pay back the Rs. 3,200 before it could take proceedings.

Mr. Justice Bayley remarked upon the fact of the defendant admitting the debt of Rs. 27,000 to the Bank, and said that the defendant's insolvency schedule entirely cut the ground from under his feet. He considered that there was no doubt that the Rs. 3,200 had been advanced upon part payment, and there could be no intention that such a sum was to stand as a set-off against Rs. 27,000, and the defendant must have known that a compromise could not be finally accepted without the sanction of the liquidator in the Court of Chancery. He accordingly discharged the present summons with costs; and in doing so he observed that the burden of proving his non-liability unquestionably lies upon the defendant.

Mr. Ferguson moved for a decree, but his Lordship disallowed the request as the day was not a motion day.

Under the circumstances, I trust that this course will be considered unobjectionable.—I have, &c.

T. C. HOPE,
Acting Municipal Commissioner.

To the MUNICIPAL COMMISSIONER.

SIR,—In forwarding the accompanying letter from Dr. Blaney, and medical certificate, I beg that you will do me the favour to obtain for me from Government and the Bench of Justices the leave therein recommended.—I have, &c. W. MAIDMENT,
Controller of Municipal Accounts.

Bombay, 18th December.

BOMBAY, 16th December.

I hereby certify that Mr. W. Maidment, Controller of Municipal Accounts, is at present in a bad state of health, and it is absolutely necessary to his recovery that he should proceed to the sea coast for the benefit of his health, and be absent from duty for a period of six months. THOMAS BLANEY.

I have examined Mr. Maidment, and fully concur in the opinion expressed by Dr. Blaney. Mr. Maidment's mental state is such as to render complete relaxation from every kind of work absolutely necessary.

JOHN H. SYLVESTER,
Acting 1st Physician J. J. H.

No. 5,970 of 1871.

MUNICIPAL COMMISSIONER'S OFFICE,
BOMBAY, 18th December.

To the CLERK of the PEACE.

The accompanying application from the Controller for leave of absence is forwarded to the Clerk of the Peace, who is requested to give the necessary notice to the Justices, that the matter may be disposed of at the earliest practicable date. T. C. HOPE,
Acting Municipal Commissioner.

BOMBAY, 16th December.

To T. C. HOPE, Esq., Municipal Commissioner for the City of Bombay.

SIR,—I have the honour to forward a medical certificate on account of Mr. W. Maidment, Controller of Municipal Accounts, whose health I am sorry to say is so bad as to preclude the hope of his return to duty without a change of air and complete relaxation from work. I think it right to add that Mr. Maidment's illness is of several months' duration, and that he has continued at his post for the last six or eight months in the face of the Justices as a reason for declining until a month ago to place himself under [illegible] medical treatment. I have, &c. DENIS BLANEY.

(FROM OUR AGED CORRESPONDENT.)

ALTHOUGH this is from an old contributor, I trust you will not suppose that my approach to what is regarded as the period of dotage will incapacitate me from dealing with a subject so youthful as a pic-nic. I can assure you that I am still proud to see young faces happy, and my delight in seeing the incipient renovators of the stock of humanity enjoying themselves is always in proportion to the means of enjoyment I imagine to be at their command generally—that is to say, I would feel more gratification in seeing a poor or friendless child suddenly placed within the pale of pleasure than I would if the same happened to a child well-to-do, according to the world's acceptation of that term, because the one must feel a keenness of enjoyment that cannot be felt by the other, who is not so likely to be influenced by the magic charm of novelty. You can therefore well imagine how much I was gratified at the prospect of a trip to Elephanta in company with the scholars of that most admirable institution, the Bombay Scottish Orphanage, which supplies a want that claims gratitude from every Scotchman who still ret
